

GOOD LUCK GRANT LIMITED

Good Luck Grant Limited (GLGL) - NCNDA and Fee Protection Charter Policies – Guidelines (Abstracts & Synopsis)

1. A buyer or seller of product or services (we are interested with – ideally commodities), if introduced to us by an independent individual or a group of individuals in the form of a company or partnership is officially eligible for premium in the form of “fee / consultancy fee” upon accomplishment of trade (successful transaction). The definition of successful trade will mean – product / services have been exchanged with funds / monies or a different monetary appreciation model has been mutually accepted.
2. Individuals desirous of asking us for NCNDA and / or Fee protection should and must present the full official - legal - valid offer from their buyers / sellers with a letter of introduction / representation or authorized to endorse business in their names. In absence of such documented information, individuals will be asked to negotiate with their sources or will be invited to fill out GLGL Introduction form in good faith to build a commercial – legal – professional working relationship base, rather than using format available elsewhere, primarily on the internet, with reference to ICC. (International Chambers of Commerce)
3. If we are asked to sign the widely circulated / internet NCNDA or master fee protection, in the absence of first & second point mentioned above, we will legally make individuals engaged with us (outside GLGL) responsible to pay 2 % penalty of the entire transaction, should the deal fails on behalf of buyers / sellers. Our reason to this penalty clause is also applicable to us, if we fail in our official – legal commitments.
4. GLGL Board meetings during 2009 – 2011 had laid out amendments in the main charter policies advising related individuals (consultants) and our corporate officers - including Partners and Directors to engage with buyers / sellers in an unknown (third party) conference facility (to protect negotiating consultants remunerations rights) over voice communication to clearly understand the successful possibility of transactions, before engaging in any legal / officially endorsed commercial ventures in official records to minimize utilization of our resources. This includes any commercial agreement – including MOU / NCNDA or Master fee protection.

5. The duty / responsibility of introductory consultants from both sides include - understanding the detailed complexity of business facilities – transactions; before making recommendations or suggestion. Among prime responsibilities, it is strictly prohibitive to engage in any manipulative behaviour, whether in writing or using any form of direct communication to influence transaction outcome before final conclusions
6. The remuneration package should always be designed in one of the two forms: A) One off round figure payment B) Ongoing payments depending upon the level of engagements of each individual with GLGL over a time period. Paid consultants, as defined above are expected to be serving representatives of the company during business movement of goods and services to rectify communication gap / problems, if any, until finalization of business.
7. A buyer or Seller whether “state owned or public listed company” is required to confirm in writing about their legal commitments for GLGL to engage with.
8. Allocating paymaster and numerical figure fee distribution can only be finalized / legalized after understanding the acceptance of pricing / tariff / rates between the buyer and seller with Ex works / FOB / CNF / CIF basis.
9. Unless written or verbal permission is granted by GLGL corporate officer / executives / representative's to share information – “proprietary to GLGL”, one must respect such privileged documents and information on our behalf.
10. Authorized representative / partners / Directors / other GLGL associated members / Individuals will have the rights to extend and exercise their powers by appointing a new individual as and when required in good faith to facilitate business opportunities.
